

Virtual Breast Cancer Awareness Month Event

Breast Cancer Clusters: Blown Out of the Water featuring Erin Brockovich

Wednesday, Oct. 21
7 to 8:30 p.m.

To register for this free Webinar, visit www.friendshealthconnection.org.

The event is coordinated by the hospital's Community Health Department in collaboration with Friends' Health Connection.

Breast surgeon Deborah Lue, MD, of RWJBarnabas Health medical group's Steeplechase Breast Specialists who is medical director of breast cancer services at Robert Wood Johnson University Hospital Somerset's Steeplechase Cancer Center, will provide an overview of your risks for breast cancer; causes of breast cancer, including environmental contaminants; signs of breast cancer; diagnostic tools (ie. Mammogram, ultrasound and MRI) and the latest treatment options, including RWJUH Somerset's High Risk Breast Cancer Program.

Erin Brockovich, the renowned crusader whose case against Pacific Gas and Electric was dramatized in the Oscar-winning film, and author of Superman's Not Coming, will share her story, inspire changes that look at our present situation with water and reveal the imminent threats to our most precious and essential element.
